

A native of Chicago, Jennifer Gamble has called Nashville home for over 30 years and dedicated more than 25 years of professional and public service to the city. She was elected to the Nashville Metro Council in 2019 and was re-elected in 2023, representing District 3. Jennifer's dedication to both professional excellence and community well-being is evident in her roles as a business leader and public servant.

As a Metro Council Member, Jennifer has contributed significantly to various boards and committees including the Metro Council Budget and Finance Committee, Nashville's Covid-19 Financial Oversight Committee, and the Nashville Area Chamber of Commerce Education Report Committee. In addition, she served a two-year term as chair of the Metro Council Planning and Zoning Committee and as a commissioner on the Nashville Planning Commission from 2023-2025, where she provided a steady and fair voice on policy issues related to equity in housing and zoning across the county.

Jennifer combines her professional expertise with a profound commitment to serving Nashville's diverse needs as Founder and CEO of Nelson PR & Communications. Previously, she led public relations efforts for the Tennessee Bankers Association, managed statewide communications for the Tennessee Higher Education Commission, and served as president and CEO of Prevent Blindness Tennessee. She holds a bachelor's degree in English from Fisk University and a master's degree in mass communication from Middle Tennessee State University.

Additionally, Jennifer is actively involved in the community as a member of Les Gemmes Inc, Hendersonville Area Chapter, the Madison Rivergate Chamber of Commerce, and the Nashville Fisk University Alumni Association. She is a recipient of the Nashville Black Chamber of Commerce 2023 Advocacy in Action Award and a 2024 Nashville Athena Award Traditional Nominee.

Jennifer and her husband George have been married for 33 years and are parents to two adult children.
